Mapp Day

Saturday was a Mapp day at Appomattox, when Senator G. Walter Mapp, of Accomac opened his campaign here for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Virginia. The court house was crowded and many turned away, unable to get in.

The meeting was presided over by J. W. Cawthorn, Jr., who called on A. H. Clement to introduce Senator Mapp, which he did in a few words.

The Senator referred to the pleasant visit to Appomattox and said no Virginian's education was complete without a visit to this historic ground. He then launched into the issues of the campaign, saying that he did not deal in personalities and expressed the highest personal regards for his opponents. He vouched his public record in the Senate for twelve years and said he would turn no somersaults in order to be elected Governor of Virginia.

He referred to the able report of the Committee on Simplification of the Va. government and said that report ought to be reprinted and put into the homes of the people. Instead of simplifying and reducing offices the Legislature created another expensive department which will cost the state $70,000 annually. He referred to the Motor Vehicle Commission, and said he would like to see it abolished and the work of issuing license and registering cars done by local authorities. He wants other departments consolidated and the great saving to the taxpayers thereby expended on roads and schools.

The Industrial Com. needs to be re-organized. He was particularly specific in the matter of fee officers, and that the Comr. of Revenue of Appomattox was receiving annually $2000 and that our treasurer was receiving $4000. These may be good fellows but are they not getting more than they are worth? He said a great saving would result in putting them on a salary at what they are worth. Expenses should be deducted from the above amounts.

He wanted taxes borne equally in all sections of the state and favored a State Board of Equalization to work with and supervise the local assessments, so that the $200 steer in the southwest would be taxed not less than the $40 steer in Appomattox. He made many comparisons of the inequality and unjust system of taxation and pledged his best efforts to correct same. At the same time he urged the people to elect a Legislature favorable to these reforms.

He wants the laws so revised that the school system will be placed in the hands of local authorities, saying that politics had entered and controlled the system as it is.

He urged the completion of our highways as speedily as possible, but said the burden of taxation could not be increased, and that he knew of nothing but water and air left untaxed; he said $7,000,000 had been borrowed under the Robertson act to build roads, and that the overhead of the highway Commission was more than $200,000 annually and he favored some arrangement for giving the Commission $12,000,000 annually to spend in completing the system as this amount was asked for by Commissioner Shirley. He wants the roads completed and believes that the state will have to make short term obligations to keep the work going on an economical basis.

He spoke for more than two hours and had to rush off to catch the train.

His speech was highly complimented and it is certain that he will get a good vote in Appomattox county.

Don P. Halsey

It is a pleasure for us to again endorse an appointment of the governor in naming Don Halsey Judge of the Sixth Judicial Circuit to succeed the late Judge Wm. Barksdale. Judge Halsey comes from judicial stock and it has been our pleasure to know him and observe him practically all his life. Don will do the fair thing on the bench as he has always been fair in his private and public life.

Monday was field day a Appomattox for all the schools of the county. Prof. R. W. Wilkins directed the athletics and Miss June Hubbard had charge of the decorations.

The school floats were very pretty and the Brookneal brass band enlivened things with good music.

Miss Grace Jamerson of the Pamplin school was chosen sponsor for the occasion and was crowned Queen of All Appomattox by her loyal subjects. The judges awarded the prize to Appomattox for prettiest float and Oakville got honorable mention.

DESCRIBE FIGHT MADE ON CO-OPS

Tobacco Farmers Bear Witness to Methods Used By Two Big Companies

Methods used by the Imperial Tobacco Company and the American Tobacco Company in their efforts to break up the organization of tobacco farmers in three states for marketing their tobacco cooperatively were disclosed here this week in the form of written evidence and affidavit by those in charge of presenting the case of the Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association to the Federal Trade Commission.

Many of the written statements from tobacco farmers of Virginia North Carolina and South Carolina which were made public this week, strongly substantiate the claim of the tobacco association that the big British Company and the American Tobacco Company are intentionally boycotting the tobacco of the Virginia Carolina farmers who have organized for cooperative marketing.

Case after case revealed by the statements of farmers show that buyers of these companies have discouraged growers from joining the tobacco association or have persuaded members to break their contract by openly boasting that their concerns would not purchase from the association.

An even more effective method of preventing delivery of tobacco to the marketing association by its members, according to the testimony secured by the association in anticipation of the investigation of these two companies by the Federal Trade Commission, has been the tempting of association members by offering them prices higher than the values placed upon certain grades of tobacco by the association and paying them prices for such tobacco which were far above the current values received by non-members upon the auction floors.

An example of the evidence given by hundreds of farmers from various sections of the bright tobacco belt, is the testimony of a member from Councils North Carolina who declares in his statement that he has seen many piles of split tobacco sold at warehouses at Whiteville and Clarkton, North Carolina and that this split tobacco brought from 40 per cent more than other tobacco of similar grade but not split or divided between a member and non-member of the association. Most of this split tobacco was bought by the Imperial buyer, according to this witness.

Just how this practice has been carried out is described in the testimony of a member from Kenbridge, Virginia, as follows:

In the winter of 1922 he brought a load of tobacco raised by a tenant to Kenbridge. His half was delivered to the association; the tenant's half was carried to the auction warehouse. The highest bid offered on one pile of the tenant's crop was $36 per 100. He refused to accept the bid. Mr. Love, buyer for the Imperial, ask him what he was going to do with the tobacco. He told Mr. Love that the tobacco belonged to a tenant of his who was not a member of the association and that unless he got $47 per 100 for the tobacco he was going to deliver it to the association. Mr. Love marked this pile of tobacco $47 per 100 and placed on it the grade of "PS."

How Co-op tobacco was doubled by an imperial buyer in the South Carolina belt is told in the following evidence by a South Carolina member who states that in 1922 he was going through Fairmont, North Carolina, and stopped at an auction sale at Dow's warehouse. While at this warehouse he saw a pile of tobacco sell for $25 and as the crowd was leaving he heard the warehouseman call out "Mr. Imperial!" and as the gentleman addressed came back the warehouseman said "That pile of tobacco is split tobacco and just sold for $20; whereupon Mr. Imperial said "Give him $40" and said pile was re-sold at $40.

Numbers of farmers have presented written statements that they were induced by these practices of the Imperial and the American buyers to break their contracts with the association.

Prominent officers and buyers of the Imperial Tobacco Company who were named in the complaints of tobacco farmers which have just been made public included Carlton, head buyers of the Imperial, J. J. Hickey, Leslie Reid and Colonel W. B. Ballou, traveling buyers and numbers of local buyers. Complaints of a very similar nature against the American Tobacco Company have been received at the Raleigh offices of the Tobacco Association.—S. D. Frissell.

COOLIDGE NATIONAL CHAIRMAN OF FUND

PRESIDENT CALVIN COOLIDGE

Chairman of the National Honorary Committee of the $1,000,000 American Legion Endowment Fund for disabled men and the orphans of war veterans. Associated with President Coolidge as sponsors of the Endowment Fund are the highest leaders of the nation in industry, labor, the professions, arts and sciences, including Hon. John W. Davis, candidate for president on the Democratic ticket last year; the cabinet members, senators, heads of the army, navy and marine corps, Cardinal O'Connell, Bishop Charles H. Brent, Julius H. Barnes, John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross, and fifty others.

DONATIONS TO AID SICK AND ORPHANS ARE EXPECTED HERE

Every Community Contributing To National American Legion Endowment Fund

This community is expected to give its share to the national American Legion Endowment Fund, as other communities throughout the United States are doing. The income from this Endowment Fund is to be used to assist and cure disabled former service men and to provide homes for the orphans and dependent children of war veterans; and the Fund, itself, is to be perpetual. A trust agreement providing for the management and [illegible] by the membership of the present American Legion, the income from the Endowment Fund shall be used for purposes most nearly identical to those for which it is needed today. The power then presented to the United States will name a board to determine the use of the income.

Every person, regardless of creed, is concerned in the welfare of those who gave their all in the world war. Especially is The Legion concerned with those thousands of war veterans who are sick and helpless, but who, because justice can never be made automatic, are unable to obtain government aid.

Thousands of Sick Aided

Those who are familiar at all with The American Legion work, know what this great organization has done to aid the disabled. Cooperating with government agencies, officials of The Legion have aided in the hospitalization of thousands of sick and wounded boys who, had it not been for a helping hand, would have been lost to society long ago.

Other thousands need that same help today. Many of them cannot be given aid by the government under existing laws, and while officials of The Legion literally have written most of the laws to take care of the disabled, it is impossible to make legislation serve all.

Many illustrations could be given. Thousands of men have married since the war ended, when—they seemingly were sound physically, but in reality were in a weakened condition from gas and exposure. They fell into the clutches of tuberculosis and other diseases, and in a few years have passed away, leaving their widows and children at the mercy of strangers.

Good Home for Every Child

The Legion is determined that every child of a war veteran shall have a good home, and a real mother's love, as that child would have had if his father had not died for his country.

The United States Veterans' Bureau estimates there are 500,000 disabled veterans in the United States today who need some degree of care. The Legion is maintaining [illegible] hospitals, now filled to capacity, where such dependent children are given good homes. Other billets are being established and will be in operation as soon as possible. In addition to this, The Legion cooperates with other child welfare organizations, assisting that every sincere effort to aid children is of value; and that the field for this endeavor is unlimited.

While under the care of the Legion the children attend public school, and live in cottages on the family group plan.

STATE CAPITAL

Would Improve State Service.

Richmond.—

Urgent need for a more thoroughly systematized personnel administration in the State departments and institutions is shown by a personal survey of the State government just completed after six months of preparation, according to Acting Budget Director J. H. Bradford, who announced he had reached this conclusion from his report.

About 3,000 employees of the State filled out information cards for Mr. Bradford during the survey and he declared that he hoped the survey would show the importance of having an improved system of personnel administration. Details of the report were not made public, but Mr. Bradford said that the survey, made at the direction of the 1924 House of Delegates, pointed out that many States counties and cities in the United States have installed such systems and are the highest leaders of the nation. The underlying principle of the movement for a systematized administration, the acting budget director said, "has been establishment of standard and properly descriptive titles and definitions for all occupations and processes relating to personal service, the development of a compensation plan based on uniformity in pay for the same work and on a consistent relationship in pay for different classes of work, and the development of standard regulations and qualifications to govern entrance to the public service, promotions, transfers and the keeping of individual efficiency records."

Figures obtained from the Federal Government and private local concerns, for the purpose of comparison in wages, etc., have been of material value, Mr. Bradford said.

New Highway Maps.

Maps showing all State Highway Routes in the State and giving distances between important points, are already being distributed by the commission, which recently prepared them.

Direction signs which are now being erected at all cross roads and other points are expected to be in place within the next sixty days, according to Commission H. G. Shirley. The markers will give the names of the places and distances between as shown on the maps, and with the signs and map available it is believed that any one will be able to easily find his way over any portion of the State.

On the back of the maps of Virginia, drawn to the scale of one inch for twenty miles, is condensed data giving points of historical and commercial interest. In distributing the maps the commission has requested that corrections of errors on mileage as well as the data on the maps, be sent in.

The map indicates the mileage of unimproved, improved hard-surface and non-hard-surface improved, county roads, which may be used, but on which the commission gives no information, are also indicated.

Legion's Campaign Fund.

The safety of the nation is the safety of the State. The duty of citizenship is to give thought and attention to this before it is too late—before the States sags away, police power is removed, and the nation is controlled by a centralized government. The greatest problem that confronts this nation is that of the orderly return of the reserve forces of the various States. Chaotic conditions are fast eliminating the State's rights, as provided for in the Constitution and everything tends to centralization in government and in business. Such preservation will be the means of maintaining the civilization of the world.

These thoughts were expressed by Judge D. Lawrence Groner before the Rotary Club in a short address urging co-operation with the American Legion in its approaching drive for funds for incapacitated veterans and war orphans. In behalf of the Legion, as Judge Groner, one helps his nation.

To Hear Bus Petition.

Petition of the Virginia State Line Bus, for permission to run bus line from Charlottesville to Culpeper has been set for hearing before the State Corporation Commission Tuesday April 21, according to announcement, C. G. Miller, secretary of motor vehicle transportation. The South Railway will appear in opposition to the petition.

Farm Homes Available.

Virginia has 135,066 farms and 16 000 farmers.

Virginia ranks high among all other States in the production of hay, potatoes, apples and peanuts.

Seventy-five per cent of Virginia's total population is farming.

There are [illegible] in Virginia 84 per cent of the farms and 85 per cent. have water in the house. Four per cent are gas fueled. There homes contain [illegible] bowling and show how the low price the farmer receives for his crops cripples his home conveniences.

Men and Money Make this Bank Secure.

THERE are two ways of measuring the strength and standing of a bank. In the first place money resources—capital and surplus—give it financial strength.

In the second place—and perhaps even more important—are men, the officers and directors. They give the bank character, determine and execute its policies.

This is a strong bank, a helpful bank because it has ample resources, and a personnel of proven character and ability.

Burge Fire

Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock fire was discovered in the annex to H. M. Burge's store and soon hundreds of citizens were on the scene with buckets and began the fight, which was waged courageously with fire extinguishers and bucket lines until it was conquered. Almost immediately after the storage house was saved fire broke out in the main store and it looked like the whole sothwest portion of the town was doomed. Water and extinguishers were again employed and soon the flames were under control.

The large stock of merchandise was being moved out of the building, which was greatly damaged by water and handling, when like a flash, the third blaze was discovered in the third story of the building. Another onward rush was made by the fire fighters and soon the blaze was extinguished.

There is no accounting for the third blaze, as there had been no fire on the 3rd floor of the building.

Mr. Burge had tinners and carpenters at work repairing the roof to his building, and adjusters representing the insurance companies are expected to adjust his damage, which will probably reach $3000.

The end was brisk from the east and had the fire gotten a start it is almost certain that the store of Mr. Reynolds, residences of Mrs. R. F. Burke and Robert Irby would have been consumed.

Now is the time to buy hose and organize to fight fire. The danger of fire in our town is always present. Will our business men provide some protection?

Mrs. L. L. Gayle has been at home sick for several days.

Miss Frances O'Brien is sick.

Card of Thanks

I desire to thank my friends and the public for help in extinguishing the threatening fire at my place of business Tuesday. My damage is great, but would have been ruinous but for timely aid of friends.

Quit Getting Up Knights.

A Healthy Bladder Is Nothing to Sneeze At.

If you have to get up nights, or suffer backache from bladder disorders, Dodson's Kidney Elixir will help to give you a good night's rest and make you feel like a new person. Be careful not to take drugs that check the action of the bladder. You may have to continue its use. Urination often burns, scalds and itches because the excess acids do not pass off in the urine, and sleep is disturbed. It is folly to expect a restful night when these poisons are retained in the system. Dodson's Kidney Elixir is a physician's prescription containing ingredients that have a remarkable effect on the kidneys, relieving the irritation and overcoming the acidity. Its tablets cost 50 cents at all druggists or send $1.25 for laboratory, Marshallsburg Ohio.
